LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION FOR SIRAJ MUNIR BIN MUZMMIL

I write in support of the application of Mr Siraj Munir Bin Muzammil for admission to NTU's Undergraduate Programme in the College of Engineering with a Major in Aerospace Engineering.

I have known Siraj since 2023 when he started volunteering in the local community at East Coast GRC where I was the Member of Parliament (MP). Siraj was merely 16 years old then but his passion and commitment to serve the community was very apparent. While many of his peers would have been engaged in many other adolescent pursuits, Siraj spent much of his time helping many of his fellow residents facing various challenges. Siraj joined the Eastwood Ria Neighbourhood Committee (ERNC) and spent much time reaching out to his fellow neighbours to build a strong local community. He was the only youth in the ERNC, reflecting the depth of his conviction to community development at such a young age. He was instrumental in organizing several community activities such as the annual Bedok Ria Chinese New Year Dinner and Christmas celebrations. Siraj puts his youthful energy and creativity to excellent use as he mobilized other youths in the community and organized various activities such as the Annual Siglap CC Edusave Awards Ceremony and visits to Botanic Gardens for seniors. He led his fellow youth volunteers in the Siglap CC Youth Network on a very meaningful project where they baked pineapple tarts for seniors living alone in the community during the 2025 Chinese New Year period.

Despite his youth, Siraj displays a high level of maturity in connecting with different groups of people. At the very local level, through earnestly understudying the senior grassroots leaders, Siraj is able to understand very complex issues that the residents present and is able to break them down into digestible bits to address the issues presented.

Siraj's passion for service and commitment towards the less fortunate and underserved in the community continues to impress me. He is always ready to respond to calls for support to this community. He recently took part in a Play Inclusive event bringing persons with intellectual disabilities to play badminton with their peers without intellectual disabilies during the Wyse Active First Anniversary Celebrations event organised by Antica Foundation. During the event, Siraj displays deep understanding of persons with special needs and shows empathy in engaging them.

In my engagement with Siraj, I have found him to be bright and very insightful. He is able to raise critical policy issues that affect the various groups that he has worked with and displayed a good understanding of the complexities and trade-offs in policy formulation. He also displays good analytical and writing skills, critical assets that has enabled him to articulate his thoughts concisely and clearly. This is clearly shown in his ability to propose good community activities and projects that take into consideration budgetary constraints and activation to community resources. He is also socially conscious, constantly reflecting on how government and community groups can work together to improve the lives of his fellow Singaporeans.

Siraj has a pleasant personality and relates well to people around him. Although he is naturally soft spoken, he has excellent interpersonal and communication skills and is able to connect with people of all ages and background. He has excellent time management skills as clearly shown in the multiple voluntary activities he was engaged in yet doing well in his studies. His early exposure to community development and service has provided him with a pace of growth and maturity not experienced by many of his peers. Siraj's willingness to go beyond his comfort zone has also enabled him to develop as a well rounded individual, excelling in his academic pursuits and extra-curricular activities as well as hone his leadership skills. It has also given him a deeper appreciation of Singapore's unique multiracial society with its strength in diversity and vision of inclusivity where every individual is valued.

Taking reference from my past experience in academia, teaching at the National University of Singapore and the University of Illinois, I am confident that Siraj will do well in the course of study he is applying for. His good grasp of Physics and Mathematics will ensure he has the right foundation needed to do well in Engineering. His recent GCE A level examination results reflects this ability. Similarly, in my twenty five years as a politician working with many young people, I would rank Siraj is in the top 10% in organisational skills and potential to excel in his academic and other pursuits, particularly in multidisciplinary studies.

Siraj has the heart to empathise with the less fortunate and acumen to critically analyse policies to better the lives of people in society. He has shown his leadership potential which can be easily harnessed to benefit any organisation he works in later in his working life. Given NTU's vision of creating a dynamic and diverse undergraduate population anchored on education, research and innovation, I am confident that Siraj will make an excellent undergraduate bringing his passion and talent to the NTU population.

As a member of the NTU community and based on my engagement with Siraj, I fully support his application for undergraduate studies in NTU.

Name : Siraj Munir Bin Muzammil (T0705995C)
Class : Sec 4E3
Graduating Year : 2023

To Whom It May Concern:

Siraj is an active member of Hai Sing Robotics Club from 2022 till present (2023).
Siraj is an individual who is capable of participating effectively in a team as he possesses strong interpersonal skills and is able to promote cooperation amongst team members. From Secondary Three, he has started to show great potential in leadership and robot design and construction. His enthusiasm and passion for Robotics were clearly exhibited from the amount of time he has spent in the IDE Series 2022, CoderZ 2022 and training.

His first robotics competition was an unforgettable experience. The IDE Series was a test of not only of his building and coding skills but also his ability to adapt, problem solve and work under pressure. Even though he had some luck with our planning, he encountered several issues with our robot and code during the competition. Despite not placing highly among the over 100 teams that participated, the experience was incredibly valuable. He learned how to work under pressure, be adaptable, and work as a team. The competition was a great opportunity to gain new skills and knowledge, and it has motivated him to continue to improve and strive for better results in the future.

He also participated in the 2022 CoderZ competition. It was his second and last robotics competition in secondary school. CoderZ is a coding-based competition that requires teams to complete multiple tasks and levels using coding skills. The competition rewards teams for speed and the number of checkpoints reached, and through our hard work and team efforts, he and his team placed 6th out of 51 teams. I am proud to say that his team also placed 1st and 2nd in two out of the three different missions, Jungle Gym Challenge and The Farm Fever Challenge. This was a valuable learning experience for him and it gave him a sense of accomplishment for his work and the work of his team.

As a senior he has been able to lead and take care of his juniors to the best of his ability and teach them everything he knows. Through multiple competitions, be it interschool or nationwide, they have learnt alot together and has been honoured to be able to lead them and nurture them to be hopefully one day successful leaders. Even though he joined the CCA just a year ago, he has grown fond of his juniors and has been a pivotal role model for them in terms of teaching them many things such as respect, honor, responsibility and so much more.

As the EXCO of logistics from 2022 till 2023, he has played a major role in the planning of the robotics camp in 2023. Since it was the first year they had the CCA camp post covid, they had no prior experience on how to plan this event. As the EXCO of logistics he had to vet majority of the plans and make sure they were viable with what they had and that we were able to execute them. The biggest problem he faced was making sure that all the plans were viable and that they could carry them out with the necessary equipment that was provided to them. It was a tough ask to scan through multiple proposals and see if they lined up properly with the schedule they had in place. Alas, after multiple hours of phone calls and back and forth discussions with fellow EXCO's, the president and vice-presidents of the CCA, he and his team managed to make it all work seamlessly. The camp was a huge success, and they were all proud to be able to accomplish this feat.

The commitment Siraj has in the robotics club is commendable. He has put in many hours to help the club to further and improve the way we do things in our CCA and help further the bonds between the juniors and seniors while being able to teach them lots from our experiences.

In a nutshell, Siraj has been a great asset to the club. His excellent diversified CCA records bear witness to the amount of hard work he has put in and it is a clear reflection of his mindset for excellence. Given such good qualities such as his good leadership skills and his deep ambition to achieve his utmost best in whatever he does, I am sure he is able to reach even greater heights in the future.

I am certain that Siraj will truly be an asset to the school. Hence, I would hope you will consider his application for this course.
